++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Cloudy and wet start to the weekend, then fine later.

Today:
Early frost, any ice, low cloud and patchy fog will lift through the morning to leave a dry day with some bright or sunny spells. Colder than Thursday, but with gentle winds. Maximum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Tonight:
Dry at first, though a band of rain soon arrives into the far west and extends east to all areas overnight, giving persistent rainfall. Feeling cold, with winds strengthening. Minimum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Saturday:
Overnight rain continues for a time, heavy over hills, though should clear away eastwards by midday leaving scattered showers behind. Brightening up later. A little milder again. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Mostly dry with sunny spells Sunday. Dry with sunny spells again Monday. However, thicker cloud, rain and stronger winds will arrive later Monday afternoon and continue through into Tuesday.
